A great deal of impatience is maniested at the inaction of our army on the comac. In this we do not sympathize. t is the duty of McClellan to run no risk at hat point; not even the remotest. The deage of the capital must not be out at hazard and made to depend on the result of a battle. The Bull Rnn affair was only not fatal because the enemy had not the courage to take alvantage of it. The Confederate forces can be moved from the Potomac without risking a general engagement; and this is the policy, no doubt, of General Mc-Clellan. When he moves his main army he will be sure of the result. In that course he is wise. It is his duty to pursue it and regard no outside pressure.

The Confederates are wasting their time, and oating themselves up at Manassas. They can take up lodging there indefinitely, and be no nearer their object. There are points to be gained remote from Washington, and more fatal to the Confederate rebellion than the occupation of Manassas. It is true, if the Confederates could take Washington, they would achieve a great success; but the Federals would not make as much by taking Manassas. The prizes are vestly unequal, and it is bad policy to stake one against the other. Secure Wash ington then; let there he no risks about it. even in the time of crossing. We are glad to see that in this State and far. Let the fleet do its duty on the coast, and the Federal troops from the West will meet it on the Atlantic; and these Manaesa: troops must return to the South or give up trusted to General Stone. These facts are that region.

The Leesburg Battle.

ADDITIONAL FACES ABOUT THE CONFLICT-HOW THE FAILURE OCCURRED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25, 1861. General McClellan is back at his headquarters, and the attempt to cross the Po-tomac at Edwards' Ferry is acknowledged to be a complete failure. The rebels can say with perfect truth that they drove the Federal troops back to their own side of the river with heavy slaughter. There has been a disposition in some quarters to blame Col Baker for his conduct in the battle. It has been charged by some that he was rash, ambitious of military renown, and led his men into unnecessary danger. There is no foundation whateverfor this criticism. Upon consulting persons who were present at the battle, and others here who knew of the entire plan, I feel confident that the facts are as follows: First, that General McClellan issued the general order for the crossing of the Potomac and a reconnoisance upon its Virginia shore. Second, that all the details of the matter were left to General Stone, who was allowed to use his own judgment these circumstances General Stone ordered Colonel Devins to cross and make a careful reconnoissance. He did so, got into a severe skirmish with the rebels, and Col. Baker was sent over to his relief. There is no evidence in the world to show rashness on the part of Baker, but, on the contrary, it is certain that he crossed the river under Missouri the Confederates have failed so circumstances of great risk and danger with the generous object of rescuing the poor fellows who were caught in a bad trap.

> As for the particulars of the crossing of the river, so far as it is possible to gather full of rick and danger. A scow and two or three boats were all the means of trans port. The river was high, the weather every way bad, and not only was there an almost total lack of means of transit across the river, but, after a small force had suoceeded in landing, they do not seem to have guarded the Virginia end of the crossing The most brilliant part of the whole performance was the final retreat at night or the force that had, subsequently to the succeeded most admirably, not a man being lost. REBEL OUTRAGES.—We are oreditably informed that a band of rebels went to the residence of Mr. Gabriel Davis, a venerable and respectable farmer, between sixty and seventy years of age, who resides in Shelby, just over the line from this county, week before last, at the dead hour of night, and took him and one of his sons out and hung them twice, until they were nearly dead. The cause of this diabolical outrage was, that one of Mr. Davis' sons and another young man had joined the Federal forces, and had been furnished by them with arms. They had hid their arms, unknown to Mr. Davis and family, until they could get read; to join their commands.

The rebels, hearing of this, went to Mr.

Davis' residence, as above stated, and decourse both Mr. Davis and his son knew nothing of their whereabouts, and told the them, so they marched the old man and his son off in different directions, and hung them to make them reveal the secret.

After being hung the second time until life was nearly extinct, the old man was cut down, and when he came to he saw a group tarding around him, who again demanded of him the whereabouts of the arma. The forth the following old man told them again that he knew nothing of the arms, but if they would let him off and come again on a certain night, if he could find out anything about the much ooveted arms, he would tell them.

On these conditions they let him off, and the poor and decrepid old man left for the home from which he had been so ruthlessly torn, more dead than alive.

The Union men hearing of the conditions on which he had been released, repaired to his house on the appointed night and waited to give the rebels a proper reception, but hearing of this concluded that "wisdom was the better part of valor," and never went near.

The old man ard his family have not sino been molested, but have been left to enjoy the undisputed rights and privileges that have hitherto been guaranteed to free born American citizens

In the worst of the oriental and Northern despotisms even the Autocrat is dound at his peril to observe certain established customs, but in Kentucky all usage is ignored and the rights of men violated in the most aggravated and insulting modes. In this state of affairs I elected to expatriate myself, and emigrate, and I resigned the office I held nader the government, and departed its territory. In doing this, having the right to choose the country of my adoption, I chose the "Confederate States" I was born within their territory, I approve their Constitution and institutions. admire their people and their statesmen, and believe that the composition and char-acter of their people, and position and cir-eumstances of their country are such that it may be confidently expected their public affairs will always be administered by high, honorable and able men.

I have unbounded confidence in their ability to maintain their independence, and that here will be performed all the duties of a good Government to its citizens. I am, therefore, ready to take the oath to support the Constitution of the Confederacy, and of right to assemble together to consuit for the allegiance to it.

Whereupon the following oath was administered to him: I, Thomas B. Monroe, hereby declare that, having renonnced my allegiance to the "United States," I hereby adopt myself a citizen of the "Confederate States of America," and solemnly swear that I will support their Constitution, and will true allegiance bear to its Government so long as I am a citizen thereof.

We are persuaded that there have They have suspended the laws and their red but few scenes more interesting than execution without warrant or necessity, and the one above described. To be appreciated properly the reader should bear in mind ha: Judge Monroe has been for some forty years a jurist of great eminence; had pre-sided in the District Court of the United States for Kentucky for more than twenty years with great credit to himself and most beneficially to the public—that he had been driven forth from his long cherished home by the most abominable tyranny the world has known, and that he is now on his way to the State of Virginia, where he was born, and whose honored soil holds the sacred ashes of a dozen generations of his ances-

> It was a scene worthy to form one of the most imposing and captivating pages in the history of the Confederacy of the South. A dramatic historian, like Macaulay, would illustrate and adorn the progress of this great revolution, with the picture presented by that venerable jurist, just escaped from the bloodhounds of the despot, who had driven him from a State in which he had ived, the light of the law, irreproachable as a man, beloved by his companions, honored by his profession, and venerable in years, voluntarily and proudly abjuring an allegiance which no longer returned to him the rights of a citizen, but made him an bsequious slave, and with all the dignity of one thus honored and respected, and conscions of this rectitude, appearing in that presence, and with the pure elequence of truth, offering the remaining years of his life to the service of the new Government, which had arisen as the successor of the old Union, as it was in its purer and brighter days. By this act the venerable Judge, now seventy years old, does not retire from the responsibilities and duties of a citizen, but transfers them from the Despotism of the North to the Confederacy of the South. Having two sons and two grandsons in the service of the Confederate States, he expresses himself ready to resnme his citizenship in these States, now struggling for their independence, which includes, not only his civil duties, but every obligation that may devolve upon any other citizen, to defend his country against the invaders, and to chastise them into justice.

It was a scene worthy of the painter's pencil and the historian's pen, and cannot fail to impress every one with its imposing

The court then adjourned.

WHOLESALE THISVING .- Officers Thomas Reaugh, Charles Glass, and C. W. Taylor, having received information that great depredations had been daily for some time committed upon that beautiful forest known as Bullitt's Woods, proceeded to that point yesterday, and found their information only too true. About one half of that forest had been felled to the ground, the wood chopped up, and hauled away. The officers succeeded in their mission so far as to arrest twenty-one, out of about fifty persons who have been engaged in this rascally business. The land is said to belong to our fellowcitizen, Cuthbert Bullitt.

MCRE TROOPS .- Capt. Graham's cavalry company, 78 rank and file, arrived at Jeffersonville last evening from Indianapolis. They are a fine looking body of men, and are well armed with Sharpe's oarbines, 22 loads, and two revolvers, twelve loads for each man, with fine horses, tents, &c., all complete. They expect to come over to the city this morning, and go into camp at Oak" land for drill.

One of the members informs us that there are about 1,600 cavalry at Indianapolis, all destined for this point so soon as they can be armed and equipped. Four companies of them expect to leave this week.

Bap Boy .- We learn that a certain boy down town is in the habit of playing some rather naughty tricks. One of them is to go into a yard where the Democrat is lying, before the resident has risen, steal it, and return about breakfast time, sell him his own paper and decamp; some other morning waiting till the man of the house has gone away, return with the stolen paper and sell it to the lady of the house. These may be sharp tricks, boy, but they will do you harm; be

Our last night's dispatches give us the published in some New York paper two long advertisements, and the said dispatches treat as to the sum, substance and phraseology, as if all the world would rejoice to hear that New York had received two advertisements from Washington.

Our dispatches further tell us that the Evening Post contradicts the Tribune's story about Commodore Dupont's private Secretary. The foundation of which, was that some orazy fellow had disappeared. ing News supply all the dispatches, local And the Navy Department states that the story is without a shadow of foundation.

Lieut. Soott, in command of the Keystone State, has been ordered under arrest for not pursuing the Sumpter as ordered till he found her. It is very evident that some of our officers are thick headed.

Later dispatches state that the New York Evening Commercial has information direct, confirming the Tribune's story. But we presume that if Commodore Dupont had informed his officers, and the officers of the Vanderbilt, that his papers were all stolen, he would hardly have done so before notibetter able to keep our readers posted as to fying the Navy Department, and the Navy Department's statement is, at noon yesterday, much later than any other reports.

Our San Francisco dates are to Sunday evening. Preparations were on foot for a great celebration over the completion of the Pacific telegraph, when the news of Col. Baker's death was received. California politicians think the Governor of Oregon will appoint Benj. Starke, of Portland, as Ba ker's successor. The New York Tribune's special correspondent at Washington regales us with another of his sensation stories—that Com- as if they had discovered the devil suddenmodore DuPont's private secretary had ly on a dark night. There was a party of absoonded from the fleet off Hampton Roads, the Court House. A shell howled up the with all the maps, plans, charts, and even street and exploded near them. The cap sealed orders for the great expedition, as if tain shouted "Disperse!" and there was a Commodore DaPont had no more sense, no more discretion, than to place such important documents in the charge of his private secretary, or where he could obtain them; and as if the means of absconding from the fleet were as easy as walking out of one's ewn door. The Herald's correspondent also treats us to the story that a captain of one of the transports had opened his instructions, and divulged the destination of several places by balls, the only wound was the fleet-just as if the captains of all those vessels were not men of prudence, men accustomed to obey orders-divulged the destination-but to whom, when, where, &c., said Herald correspondent saith not, If he discovered so much, how did his ingenuity come to stop without learning all the partioulars? The fact is, the Herald and Tribune, like the two blades of a pair of shears, are both aiding the rebellion in every possible way-each outting against the other, but always managing to do something intended to injure the cause of the government. We wait for more un lie-able information before we pin our faith to either

UGAR-CURED HAMS.-4 CASKS FOR SALE (ON

We find in the Cincinnati Commercial of yesterday, the following interesting parmorning :

THE FIGHT AT WEST LIBERTY, KENTUCKY-PARTICULARS OF THE BEIRMISH-COLONEL LEN A. HABRIS' REGIMENT IN FINE CONDI-

Captain James Laughlin, of Company B, Konkle's battery, and his orders were to see the battery safe into General Nelson's com mand, and then to return, unless wanted for special service for a day or two. Cart. Laughlin has expected to serve as the body guard of General Mitchel, under the anticipation that General M. would take command of the column advancing to Eastern Ten-nessee. These facts will account for the presence of Capt. Laughlin in the action of West Liberty and his return.

Col. Len Harris, with his regiment, 2nd Ohio, two guns of Capt. Konkles' Ohio bat. office. or at the place above mentioned. tery, and Capt. Laughlin's cavalry, set out at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon of last week, from a point thirty-six miles this side of West Liberty, for a march upon that town, ntending to surprise it at daylight the following morning. It was reported that the rebels, several hundred strong, were advantageously posted in the neighborhood of West Liberty, which is situated on the head waters of the Licking river, is the county seat of Morgan county, and thirty-five miles from Prestonsburg, the headquarters of the rebels in Eastern Kentucky. The gallant boys of the Ohio Second pressed forward with great spirit and vigor, but a heavy rain came up and fell for six hours without intermission, making the roads so bad as to cause detention. The men toiled forward steadily all night, wading the Licking river—the wa ter up to their belts-three times. At eight o'olock Wednesday morning they had marched 36 miles, and the bushwhackers of the enemy, posted on a rocky hillside and in a corn field, opened fire upon the advance, doing no injury, as they were in manifest tripidation. Colonel Harris saw that the fight was to be a mere skirmish, and that the first thing to be done was to clean the enemy out of the bushes. Giving directions to the artillery (one gun had been left behind, owing to the wretched condition of the roads, and there was but one on the spot) to send a few shell into the town, and a suspicious neok of the woods, the Colonel gave his horse in charge of a servant, and went into the bushes with his flank companies, which were armed with Enfield rifles. They had a most exciting hunt after the rebels, who were popped over in all directions, and driven like a flock of frightened animals through the bushes and fields. The Captain says Colonel Harris and his men re urned from this rebel hunt covered all over with burrs and Spanish needles. Not one of the boys was as much as soratched by an enemy's ball, though they had killed seventeen rebels, most of whom were men living in that violnity. There was no mis take about the killing, for coffins have been the articles most in demand since that time in the little town of West Liberty. Three well known citizens of the town were killed, and another, the leading secesh of the Col. Jno. McCrea, formerly an officer in place, was seen running away, his right rifle ball. In the first onset, one platoon of Captain Laughlin's cavalry had been sharply engaged with a party of the enemy posted on a steep and rocky hill. One rebel was shot dead there, and another wounded. Lieut Sam. W. Fordyse, of the cavalry, was struck by arific ball in the left leg, the ball glancing from the bone, inflicting a painful wound. The rebels were terrified at the bombshells sent screeching through the woods, and fled wild soamper. One fellow, well mounted, and armed with a good rifie, lingered behind, and fired with deliberate aim at Col. Harris, as the latter rode into the town. He luckily missed his aim. The moment he fired he put his horse to the top of his speed to make his escape, but a volley was fired after him, and he fell headlong. On coming up to him he was found stretched in the road insensible. A close examination of his person disclosed the fact that though his clothes had been cut in a bullet hole through his right hand. The fellow was secured. The town was deserted by its inhabitants, only a few ne-groes remaining behind. The people had been taught that the Union soldiers would be guilty of the most awful atrocities. Several women made their appearance on Thursday, trembling with cold and fear, and said that they had remained in the woods all night after the fight. They were afraid they would be ill-used if they were in the power of the Union soldiers, and were greatly surprised and gratified to learn that they had been mistaken. The poor oreatures had been told by the Secesh that the Abolition soldiers rejoiced to kill Southern babies, and were in the habit of carrying little children about on their bayonets in the towns which they took; and this was actually believed. Friday morning, when Capt. Laughlin left, the people at West Liberty were more reconciled. They had received a lesson Col. Harris was expecting orders to join Gen. Nelson, to take part in the expedition to Prestonsburg. Gen. Nelson was at Hazal Green, with two regiments of Ohio troops, and Col. Metcalf's Kentuokians, and there was another regiment of Ohioans at Mount Sterling, pressing forward. Col. Harris was within thirty-five miles of Prestonsburg, and Gen. Nelson, ten or fifteen miles south of Col. Harris, and about the same distance from Prestonsburg. It was reported the rebels were about 3,000 strong at that place, and without artillery, though it was understood that six pieces for them were on the way, through the mountains, from Virginia. Harris' regiment was in excellent health and spirits, and anxious to stir up something more exciting in the way of a

TELEGRAPHIC.

New York. Ootober 29 .- Two advertisements are published this morning. The first at the instance of the President of the United States, commanding the Marshal to attach certain real and personal property of Wm. Shields, and to give notice persons claiming the same, or knowing or having anything to say why the same should not be condemned to the use of the United States, to appear before the District Attorney, on the 28th of November next, to nterpose their claims, and to make their order of the court, is in accordance with the first, and sets forth that Mr. Shield, formerly of Washington, some months ago removed with his family to Richmond, where he has been residing ever since, and where he has been, and now is, engaged in the insur-rection and resistance to the laws of the United States of America, now existing in said State and in secret correspondence with the enemies of said United States re-siding in the city of Washington and else-where, and transmitting to them money and other valuables, and receiving the same from them in return, which has been applied in part to aid and abet and promote the said insurrection and resistance to the the said insurrection and resistance to the laws and those who are engaged therein; and the said Mr. Shield has knowingly used and employed and consented to the use and employment of the property herein before more particularly described to aid, abet and promote the same insurrection and the parties engaged therein.

The Post says a morning journal alarms its readers by a report that the private Secretary of Commodore Dupont had deserted to the enemy. Our own correspondent with the naval expedition mentions incidentally, as a matter of small impor tance, that a master's mate on one of the ships, a crazy fellow, had suddenly dis-appeared, and it was feared that he had, in wandered beyond our lines, where he would be shot by the enemy. We suppose this is the ground of fact on which the startling rumor was founded!
Lieutenant Scott, who was in command of the Keystone State, has been placed under arrest at Philadelphia, for bringing his vessel to that port, when he was ordered to follow the Sumter until he found her. This evening's Commercial prints the following: A prominent business firm in the city received to day a letter from the fleet about to sail on the Southern expedition which partially confirms the statement made this morning in regard to the defection of a prominent naval officer and the loss of the sealed orders of the Commodore. The letter

"Dear Sir: Last night a surgeon from the Vanderbilt came on board our vessel, and reported that the Commodore had been robbed of all his private papers, plans, charts, and sealed orders by his private olerk. The traitor was supposed to have gone over to the rebels. The effect of this new turn events may give to the whole en-terprise cannot be conjectured."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27, 7 P. M .- The announcement of the completion of the telegraph line, at 7 o'clook last evening, sent a thrill of joy through the community Preparations for firing a salute and other demonstrations in honor of the event, were in readiness, when the second dispatch from the east announced the death of Gen. Baker, whom almost every oitizen here regarded as a personal friend. Universal joy was thus turned to sorrow, and the celebration postponed. Politicians, well informed in Oregon matters, express the opinion that the Governor will appoint Benj. Starke, of Portland, to succeed Baker in the Senate. His sympathies are with secession. Most glowing accounts of the richness of the Ner Perces mines and new gold discoveries over a rich expanse of country, are published in the Portland papers. Gold, in increasing quantities, continues to arrive from the mines. The same character distinguishes the news published in the Viotoria papers from the British Celumbia mines. News from these sources never was more exciting. There will probably be another stampede north next spring, equal to the Frazer river excitement of 1859.

Ship Sarah Chase, arrived yesterday from Calcutta via Hajodai, the 16th of September, brings intelligence that the Russians have taken possession of the island of Isos Sinta, after a short engagement with the Japanese. WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.-At noon to-da,y the Navy Department had the best reason for believing untrue the rumor that the private Secretary of Commodore Dupont had absconded with all the maps, charts and sealed orders of the great naval and military expedition.

The purser from the flotilla last night reports that the George Page is now cooped up in Quantico creek. As our batteries on the Maryland shore bear directly on the mouth of the creek, it would be a matter of considerable risk for her to attempt an exit. Naval prizes have run the blockade and come up the river.

Bosron, Oct. 29 .- Lieutenant Colonel Palfrey, commanding the Massachusetts 20th regiment, has made an official report to Gov. Andrew, in which the loss of this gallant regiment at Ball's Bluff is shown to be about 30 per cent. The number of offi cers engaged numbered 22; officers safe, 9; killed, 1; wounded, 5; missing, 7; rank and file engaged, 318; killed, wounded and missing, 147.

The second advertisement, published by They lay upon the oold ground, almost frozen, with well loaded muskets in their hands, every moment expecting an over powering assault from the concealed and verpowered enemy, whose numbers were known to exceed our own by many thous ands; yet the only mourning uttered by these hardy sons of the northwest was at the orders for return, without disputing the ground, inch by inch, with their adversa-

This regiment brought with them two prisoners—the owner of the mill on Goose Creek and his son—who, it was alleged, had prepared combustibles to fire the bridge over Goose Creek, but were pre-vented from oarrying out their disign by the sudden descent upon the bridge of our skirmishers. The efficers of the night had a conversation with a prisonor, a highly intelligent gentleman, and a non-commissioned officer of one of the Mississippi regiments engaged in the affair at Ball's Bluffs. He left Leesburg on Saturday night, where there were about five regi-ments. There were no defensible works at Lee-burg, but every approach was fortified commanding the river and land routes. The prisoner was astonished to learn that our army was not almost entirely composed of Abolitionists and radioal Republicans. and that our main object was other than the emancipation of slaves throughout the South. He said if the fact was generally known to the working people of the South that our sole object was to preserve the Union intact, there would be a revolution in the Confederate army, and peace would be restored. He was surprised beyond measure to be assured that the Breckinridge Democrats compose a large portion of the army.

Capt. Vaughn, of the Rhode Island Bat-tery, who went over with a flag of truce, has returned. He was captured by a party who did not understand the law of nations, but was afterwards released by the military authorities.

Darnestown, Oct. 29 —General Ranks' brigade left Edwards' Ferry yesterday morning, and arrived here last night. A sufficient force remains at and near the Ferry to ensure safety against attempts to oross or molest us.

The question has been asked why General Lander was about to form his brigade for battle at Ball's Bluff. He was in Washington under special orders, and hearing of the engagement, proceeded to Poolesville, and took part in the action on that day, at Ed wards' Ferry.
Colonel Baker's body, having been em-balmed, will be exhibited in state in Phila

ARRIVALS—Major Anderson, Cincinnati; Dove, Ky. River; Trio, Madison. DEPARTURES—Major Anderson, Cincinnati; Dove, Ky. River; Trio, Madison; Gold-

.....The river was slowly falling last evening, with five feet five inches water in the canal by the mark.Yesterday was a real October dayblustry, yet warm—the dust flying in clouds, blinding and ohoking, and was, we judge, the opening day of "Indian summer."

.....Our whar?, in a business point of view, presents a very disconsolate appearance—four or five steamers lying to—very few people moving about, and but little freight to be seen. The Iowa has been loading for several days for Pittsburg, and will possibly get off to day with a fair trip, considering the dull times. The Argonaut has also commenced loading, but with those two exceptions, there is nothing doing. The Dove left for Kentucky river with a light freight; her down trips are somewhat better, as she brings in considerable quantities of wheat, corn, fruits, &c. The Trio left for Madison with some freight and passengers.

..... The Belle Creole passed up from below heavily loaded for Cincinnati, and the Golden State left Portland for Cairo and intermediate ports with a very respectable trip in freight and passengers.

FOR CINCINNATI -The Superior is the mailboat at noon to day for Cincinnati. FOR HENDERSON. -The Star Gray Eagle, Capt. Donnelly, is the packet this afternoon at five o'clock for Henderson and all way points. J. A. Lusk will be found at the olerk's desk. The St. Louis Republidan, of Sunday, has the following items: "The river here is still falling slowly.

"The Illinois river is falling steadily, with five feet water in the channel from Lasalle to the mouth. "The upper Mississippi is falling all the way down from St. Paul. There is 41 feet water on the upper and 21 feet on the lower rapids. Below Keokuk there is 6 feet. "The Missouri river is falling from Lex. ington down, with four feet in the channel. "The weather is fine and cool. Business promises to be dull on the landing "The W. H. Russell, which started out from this port a day or two ago for Missouri river, was found to be leaking to such an extent as to damage the freight in the hole, and she put in at the upper end of the levee to calk. The Russell had been lying up for three or four months, and the oakum had rotted out of her seams, which admitted the water pretty freely when she came to be loaded. She will be ready to leave for the Missouri river very shortly.

From the Cincinnati Gazette, 29th Inst. 1 Successful Skirmish of Union Men at Warsaw, Ky.

The neighborhood of Warsaw, Ky., has been considerably annoyed of late by a gang of secession rascals led by a reckless fellow named Luther Green, and all sorts of petty outrages have been committed on Union men by these outlaws. On Saturday last, however, a complete non plus was put to their proceedings by a little band of Union volunteers, numbering eighteen or twenty, under Captain Howe, who is recruiting at Camp Boyle, on Paint Lick oreek, near Warsaw. On the morning of that day two soldiers of Captain Howe's company were surpr sec by Green's gang and made prisoners, and it is stated that they were about to be hung when the news reached comp. The little party mentioned immediately started in pursuit, and after a brisk walk of six miles they came in view of the rebel party, which numbered thirty or forty, and a skirmish ensued. The rebels took to flight, but two of them-Robert Hernden and T. J. Hughes-were shot dead, and Green was taken prisoner.

The two Union soldiers were recovered and a number of small arms and a quantity of personal property was secured. Green arrived here yesterday and was sent to Camp

Your agent at this place, Mr. Houfman, recommended me to try the S, rup and Cerate, which I fortunately did, and am now a sound and well man by their use.

With greatgratitude, I remain yours truly.

Mr. Weirbaught being a well known geutleman of Ashland co., mass this information most reliable.

By taking the Syrup as directed, it will drive the disease from the system, and when once ont on the skin, a few applications of Dr. Weaver's Carate or Otatment, and you have a permanent cure.

The CERATE has proved itself to be the best Otat ment very invented, and where once used it has never been known to fall of effecting a permanent cure of Old Gores, Tetter and Ringworm, Scall Head, Chilibiains and Frost Bites, Barbers' Itch, Chapped and Cracked Hands or Lips, Biotches or Pimples on the Face. And for every family.

E. Price of Strup, $1 per bottle; Cereate is the only thing required to cure. It sho
